I would like to express my sincere gratitude to those composers - for their creative work, efforts, and contributions.

I would also like to give my sincere thanks to our wonderful musicians - for their dedication and interpretation of the music.

Special thanks to our Management Committee, without their voluntary dedication all of these great events could not be possible.

He has collaborated with several symphony orchestras in Australia, including Melbourne, Adelaide and Western Australia, and has toured the country with the award-winning Streeton Trio as part of Musica Viva. In 2007, Kopp was named the ABC Symphony Australia Young Performer of the Year in the Keyboard category. He has studied under notable pianists such as Jennifer Hammond, Daniel Herscovitch, Rita Reichmann, Avedis Kouyoumdjian and Pascal Devoyon and is currently a core member of Ensemble Offspring.

Richard Campanelli (USA)

He was a Nikos Skalkottas fellow at Tanglewood during the summer after graduating from Hartt School where he studied with George Perle. Mr. Campanelli received his DMA from the University of MI where he studied with Leslie Bassett, George B. Wilson, William Bolcom and Eugene Kurz. Mr. Campanelli's awards include yearly ASCAP grants, a Meet the Composer grant, a Charles Ives Fellowship and a Goddard Lieberman Fellowship from the American Academy of Arts & Letters, The Holtkamp Award for new organ music, a Marimolin prize for new music for violin and marimba, and 2 Michigan Council for the Arts grants.

He has had two orchestral pieces premiered by the Detroit Symphony.

Mr. Campanelli has also received commissions from the Detroit Symphony, Oboist Harry Sargous, and the Contemporary Music Forum of Washington, DC where he was on the production board.

His piano duo was premiered at the Busan Cultural Center by pianists Seung-Hwan Kim and Hyo-Jin Jang.

Shifting States

Shifting States is a work for solo piano in one movement of approx. 8' 20" duration.

The compositional idea of this work is the way a relationship between two states, one peaceful and more passive, and one more aggressive and dominating interact and change throughout the piece. Most of the work is derived from events that happen on the first page.

The inspiration came from how divided the U.S. was becoming, and then becoming aware that it wasn't just this country, and since the time I had written this piece it seems that things have only gotten worse.

It's not like other piano pieces that I have composed, have more 'gestural' content consisting of shorter spans of music. It is a piece for our times.

Brian Field (USA)

Dr. Brian Field's music is an eclectic fusion of lyricism and driving rhythm that brings together elements of post-romanticism, minimalism and jazz. He has received a host of awards, including the RMN Classical recording prize, the Benenti Foundation recording prize; First Prize, Briar Cliff Choral Music Competition; and First Prize, Victor Herbert ASCAP Young Composers' Contest among many others.

Dr. Field began his musical endeavors at age eight with the study of piano, and began his first serious compositional efforts at sixteen, earning his undergraduate degree in music and English literature from Connecticut College, where he graduated Magna Cum Laude, Phi Beta Kappa. At Connecticut, he studied composition with Noel Zahler, piano with the Polish pedagogue Zosia Jazynovich, organ with John Anthony, and harpsichord/figured-bass realization with Linda Skernick.

Devoting himself to composition, Dr. Field continued his musical studies at the Juilliard School in New York City where he was awarded his Master of Music degree. At Juilliard he was a student of Milton Babbitt. From Juilliard, Dr. Field attended Columbia University, earning his Doctorate. At Columbia, he was a President's Fellow and studied composition with George Edwards and Mario Davidovsky.

Dr. Field's musical works include music for television and stage; solo acoustic, chamber, ballet, choral, electroacoustic and orchestral works. His compositions have been performed throughout the United States and internationally and are recorded on RMN Classical, Parma Recordings and Ablaze Records.

Three Moods for Piano

Three Moods for Piano are brief movements that explore unique rhythmic and melodic themes in sometime angular, sometime more sweeping and accessible manners.

The first movement, "Interior Dialogue," alternates a principle rhythmic theme between right and left hands; the second movement "Upon Remembrance," is a sentimental post-romantic tribute; while the last movement "Wind Dance," is a rapid flurry of rhythmic motion.

5 Preludios para piano John Tellez (Colombia)

John Tellez (Colombia)

John Tellez was born in Bogota, Colombia. At the age of ten, he took his first piano lessons with his uncle-in-law the conductor Pedro Enrique Peña Bernal.

At the age of 15, he began harmony and classical guitar studies with his uncle and he started composing his first compositions. At the same age, he took some lessons with the pianist Cecilia Casas, professor at the Conservatorio de la Universidad Nacional de Colombia and founder of the contemporary music festival of Bogota. One year later he took lessons with pianist and organist Juan Carlos López Peña, a professor at the Conservatorio del Tolima and the Colombian representative at the WPC (world piano conference) in Novi sad (Serbia) in 2018.

In 2012 he began his studies in piano at the Conservatorio de la Universidad Nacional de Colombia and in 2015 he began his studies in composition at the same institution. In the conservatory, he studies composition with Mauricio Arias, Gustavo Parra, Moisés Bertran I Ventejo y Harold Vásquez Castañeda, piano with Piedad Pérez, organ with Mauricio Nasi and theory with Svetlana Skriagina and Alena Krasútskaya.

His music has been performed in Colombia, the Netherlands, and Germany.

Preludes for Piano

The preludes have been thought of as small works in which I seek to work on very few elements. In each of the pieces, I proposed different elements: in the first, I worked with polymodality and a two-voice counterpoint that I endowed with impressionist elements; the second is influenced by minimalist music and consists of a bass ostinato and a melody that is born from the union of two melodic lines; the third consists of four harmonies that are varied throughout the piece; the fourth is based on the change of a synthetic scale on C, which progressively changes to the C major scale; the fifth takes minimalist elements and is based on a harmony of three voices, being the central voice in triads, the one that articulates the form of the piece.

In general, the preludes are characterized by having a small number of rhythmic and melodic motifs, their musical form varies thanks to the improvisational character, for which there was a pre-established formula for the formal structure of the entire work.

Sami Koivuneva (Finland)

Sami Koivuneva, born in Helsinki, Finland, on the 28th February 1976 .

I started playing the piano when I was 11 years old. I had a piano teacher for two years. Ever since I have practised by myself. I begun composing at the same time when I took the first steps playing the piano.

I wrote mainly piano music the first years of composing. I arranged music for piano and cello and worked as a television pianist around the year 1999. I played and improvised music in a television show. Ever since I have composed music for theatrical dramas and comedies.

Orchestral music came along around year 2010 when I started rehearsing writing scores for symphony orchestras. My first piece of orchestral work was published in 2014 by the Finnish Wind Band Association. I orchestrated one of my early piano works for a wind band. It was a piece of music called "Daydream by the Sea".

Now I am working with my 2nd Piano Concerto which is called "Momentum".

Piano Sonata

Sami Koivuneva's Piano Sonata was written in 2020, the year of oddness.

It has three movements. The first movement has a tempo marking 138 and it is to be played fairly fast but not rushing it - molto allegro ma non troppo. The first movement has two themes. It opens up with a rapid descent and the first theme is played in the bass notes. The second theme is a scherzo, a playful moment which tries to detach it from the dark sounds of the first theme, before returning to the first descent and bass note theme.

The second movement has a tempo marking 68. It is to be played very calmly- molto andante. The sustain pedal to is used to make atmospheric sounds echoing in the space.

Chen-Hsin SU (born in Chiayi City, Taiwan in 1989) is a composer/pianist/psychiatrist. In recent years, Chen-Hsin's works have been awarded in several international composition competitions. His compositions have also been performed in America and Australia.

Mr. SU has been studying piano since the fifth grade of elementary school and entered the medical department of China Medical University in Taichung city, Taiwan, in 2008. He began to experiment and compose music during the university period and held a personal piano recital of the Liszt track (including "B minor sonata") in the school's auditorium in May 2012. He graduated from the university and received his Taiwan medical license in 2015.

During 2016-2017, he has 2 musical publication ("States of Mind" and "Wanders") available at Amazon.com, including 24 Concert Etudes in all 24 keys. Dr. Su had been receiving psychiatry residency training programs at the Taoyuan Psychiatric Center (Aug. 2017- Oct. 2022). He received his Taiwan psychiatrist license in 2022.

Piano improvisation is also his specialty. He continues to post many videos of his improvisations on online platforms. By observing the interactions between people around him at work, he tries to incorporate the terminology he has experienced in clinical psychiatry into his compositions, such as the 31-piece prelude collection named "Vacillations" and the two-movement piano sonata "Psychiatric Interview", both of which are related compositions. In recent years, his compositional style has gradually changed from romantic to contemporary. As a holiday composer, he enjoyed composing piano pieces especially. Music has always been a way for him to express and record emotions.

Dr. Su especially likes the masterworks of Liszt, Chopin, Faure, Ravel, Debussy, Scriabin, Rachmaninoff, and Kapustin. He anticipates having more piano performances and music writings to share his joys from music with people while practicing medicine in the future.

Piano Sonata: Psychiatric Interview

This Piano Sonata including 2 movements. Clinical psychiatric terms are incorporated to each piece in order to associate the audience with human emotions and behaviours.

<Explanation of the psychiatric term>

Paranoia:

A psychiatric syndrome marked by the gradual development of a highly elaborate and complex delusional system, generally involving persecutory or grandiose delusions, with few other signs of personality disorganization or thought disorder.

When the pianist plays this piece, he needs to imagine a picture: an eccentric and suspicious person who gradually produces a systematic delusional system.

Mood disorder, is a group of emotional disturbance that describe a serious change in mood. Special arrangements have also been made for the conversion between various emotional disorders.

Neuroticism:

a personality trait involving tendencies to respond with negative emotions to threat, frustration, or loss.

Dysthymia:

A mild, chronic form of depression that lasts at least 2 years, during which, on most days, the individual experiences depressed mood for most of the day and at least two other symptoms of depression.

Euthymia:

Normal range of mood, implying absence of depressed or elevated mood.

Hypomania:

Mood abnormality with the qualitative characteristics of mania but somewhat less inten

His music is played in Italy, Germany, Iran, Norway, U.S.A.

Variazioni contaminate

The work is a group of variations, on a theme by Giovanni Canciani, contaminated by "foreign" elements. Each variation has its disturbing "element", in contrast to the writing of the variation itself and each variation, in its final part, anticipates the writing of the next variation, creating a well-defined work in its development. The final variation is a politonal fugue that incorporates all the contaminations presented in the course of the work, as a summary of everything that has just been heard.

Nocturne I

It is a narrative piece and a sound representation of the evocative atmospheres of Nietzschean thought derived from the light/darkness dualism. The piece is in song form and is thought, in part, of as a continuous contraction and relaxation of time.

Nocturne II

The piece is a mix derived, in part, from Prelude No.2 in C minor book I by Johann Sebastian Bach and from Avec le temps by Léo Ferré; it is organized as a perpetual motion of descending arpeggios that evoke the image of an infinite progression.

Randall Snyder (USA)

Randall Snyder was born in Chicago in 1944 and attended University of Wisconsin earning a DMA degree in 1973. He has taught at colleges in Illinois, Wisconsin and for several years at the University of Nebraska, where he was resident composer from 1993-2008. He currently is a free lance musician living in Lincoln, NE. and adjunct professor at Peru State College.

One for Mr. Taylor

This piece was inspired by the music of Cecil Taylor, whom I had the Privilege of hearing several times while a student at the University of Wisconsin when he was artist in residence. This music is not intended as a specific recreation, but rather, a document reflecting the emotional and physical impact his music exerted on me at that time. It juxtaposes music of extremes: quiet, mostly sustained, stratified music, alternating with violent, angular outbursts. The spirit of improvisational avant-garde jazz of the 1960s is pervasive throughout.

Cecil Taylor (March 25, 1929 – April 5, 2018) was an American pianist and poet. Taylor was classically trained and was one of the pioneers of free jazz. His music is characterized by an energetic, physical approach, resulting in complex improvisation often involving tone clusters and intricate polyrhythms.

The Picture of Li-Po Reciting Poetry

This work is inspired by a picture painted by Song Dynasty artist Liang Kai. The picture shows the Tong Dynasty poet Li Po reciting his poem. To depict the romantic charm, motion, and emotion of the picture, the music is constructed upon several isolated and contrasted phrases. The pianist portrays that poet at times in a soft murmur and at times in impassioned broad outburst.

Composed in 1999, this work has been performed at many music festivals across the world.
